The main known issues and user experience changes are described in this document. Acrobat 2015: If you download the Classic Acrobat or Reader 2015 patches from your release notes or FTP site, you will receive an authentication message and the installation is blocked. This behavior occurs for all installation packages downloaded using a browser and not from the Mac App Store. To start the installation, double-click the configuration and select Open. Sample authentication request Displays an authorization request in the upper-right corner. Click Allow enable notifications. Recent: An operating system permission request appears if you open recent added files in this location before upgrading to Catalina. File thumbnails in recent locations and others: Thumbnails are displayed for files for which Acrobat has read permission. File thumbnails on tool landing pages: The thumbnail only appears if Acrobat has read permission for the folder where the file is located. Creating Acrobat tape PDFs in Word and PowerPoint: An operating system permission request appears. Click OK to continue. If you don't give permission, you'll see an Acrobat warning that shows you how to proceed. PostScript for PDF conversion: Acrobat displays an operating system permission request. Click OK to continue. An operating system request for Acrobat Distiller appears. Click OK to continue. If you don't give permission, you'll see an Acrobat warning that shows you how to proceed. Capturing the screen in PDF: A permission request is displayed. In the screen recording prompt, click Open system preferences. In the Security and Privacy dialog box, select Adobe Acrobat for screen recording. If you click Deny, a prompt appears Acrobat. Click OK to continue. Combine &t: When you first add or convert an Office file, an operating system permission request appears. The experience is similar to that of macOS 10.14 Mojave. Select files from the Recent Files list and combine: For each selected file, an operating system permission request is displayed. Review start based on network folders: A permission request is displayed. Click OK to allow access to files on the network volume. Network.
